Collecting

Marcel Rauschenbach considers himself a novice as his collection is only 10 years old. Despite this, the collection is well worth a look at because of the models and their unique presentation ...

NZG produced the Massey Ferguson MF 450S beginning in 1969. Albert Schmid looks into the fine details of the history of this tracked excavator, both original and model, while showing yet another “eye candy” item from his collection ...

Models

Sennebogen is always good for an unexpected surprise. This time it is the new 818E-M from Conrad that showed up quite un-expectedly on dealers’ shelves ...

We continue Nigel Paine and Chris Irwin’s series about alternative tools for excavator models. These Brits are building sieve and crushing shovels that make for a welcome change on display case shelves ...

Current

How to make cobbled streets and what to look out for when building scenery for a diorama are the themes of the second installment in our on-going series ...

We were fortunate to be on site at Lake Geneva when the Landsverk L-190 was used there for the last time. But this was not to be the curtain call for the veteran. With more than 50 years on the clock, it works again in the south of France ...
